RACE SUIT FABRIC

These highly elastic knit fabric are not as abrasion resistant as woven fabrics. Contact with abrasive surfaces such as Velcro should be avoided.

Some prints on fabric are always done on a white base. The print only penetrates the surface and some underlying white may show through in areas of extreme stretch.

Wear and Tear is normal in stretch fabrics and may include pilling, snagging cuts from edges and fabric burns from hitting gates at high speeds.

THESE PHENOMENA ARE NORMAL AT ANY USE OF POLYESTER MATERIALS SO THAT THE AFOREMENTIONED INJURIES CAN NOT BE THE REASON OF A CLAIM.

We are introducing the finest suits made of the ESCHLER SCHOELLER e3 fabric, produced by a recognized Swiss manufacturer of technical fabrics that also holds concession for the acquisition of FIS licenses. The fabric is manufactured on the principle of double-layered special laminate, with a middle layer of liquid acrylic foam. The following are the most salient superior characteristics of the ESCHLER SCHOELLER e3 fabric

- Excellent body fit due to elastic fibres
- Freedom of movement
- High insulation value
- High aeration value (breathability)
- Water-repellent (Teflon-covered textiles)
- Wind resistance protection
